THE ADDITION EDITION

VOL. 4 • NO.1

Turning your vision into reality.

A design-build firm

You don't want an addition that looks like an addition.

The last thing you want is to pay is thousands of dollars for rooms that look like they were randomly stuck to your house at a later date. You want your addition to look seamless, like it was part of the house all along.

Sometimes that requires finding special handmade brick or siding, a certain type of flooring, or trimwork that many builders are not willing to do. We are willing and we have the resources to locate those materials that maintain the style of your home without sacrificing the modern conveniences you want. So if you want an addition that doesn't look "added", call the builder that can make it happen.

Where can I get doorknobs like Grandma had?

Not at the big box retailers, that's for sure. Retro is back and the details that make it retro are not always easy to locate. We love a challenge. From the multi-faceted glass door knobs that were standard issue in grandma's house to antique chandeliers, claw-footed tubs, antique fireplace surrounds or wrought iron spindles, we can track down the accessories that make a statement or preserve the period look in your home.

1 ON 1 with the Owner

The owner, Blaine Bush, is whom you will work with to bring your vision to life.

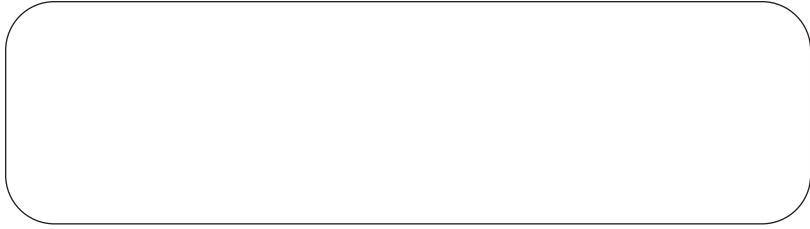

You might have photos and plans and want a brilliant execution. You may want us to produce plans and offer guidance. If you do choose us, you'll see Blaine along side of his dedicated employees. We even show up on time because we are not subcontractors.

So while some delays are beyond our control, they won't happen because our floor man is subbed out to 12 other jobs before he gets to yours. In short, we strive for a working relationship that results in an end product that exceeds your expectations.

Bathroom in elegant off-white marble and granite with a rainforest inspired frameless shower. The casement window is punctuated with with an ellipse top.

An outdoor kitchen just naturally brings people together.

to an outdoor affair with good food, good company and a background ensemble of crickets. When you aren't entertaining others, the outdoor kitchen is a great break from the usual routine. Kids love it, no matter what age they are.

Even teenagers you can barely pin down for a one-minute conversation are willing to hang around and have dinner with the family if it's cooked and served outdoors. So if you want to create some long-term memories, all you need to do is create the setting. That natural gathering instinct will inspire the rest.

Nothing brings people together like the tradition of a great meal enjoyed outdoors. Just imagine the soft din of conversation and laughter on a balmy summer night with friends and neighbors while you fire up the grill in your outdoor kitchen. You can practically smell the aroma of shish kebob sizzling on the grill and bread baking in the wood-burning oven. There is just no comparison
